The t-shirt
message

We are facing a perfect storm of energy, food and water

Global Challenges

Start from the t-shirt and think what also needs to be presented

- Lots and lots of bullet points
- Really lots of bullet points
- Attempts to fill absolutely all space with text, equation and images & cramming it all in
- Incomprehensible abbreviations
- ‘PowerPoint-ese’
- Speaker reading directly off from the slides
- Did I say lots of bullet points?

Global Challenges

Global Challenges

The only way you will know you are within time, is to practice the entire talk telling someone something

You must know what your audience knows, or could know (in the time you are talking to them)

What can you assume?
What must you explain?
Can you explain?

Global Challenges

Why are they here?
Why are they listening to you?

telling
someone

Can a collapse of global civilization be avoided?

The image shows a website banner for 'Global Documentary'. At the top left, there are two buttons: 'Watch' (pink) and 'Embrace' (orange). To the right, the hashtag '#EmbraceChange14' is displayed, followed by social media icons for Twitter, Facebook, and Tumblr, and a YouTube icon. The main banner features the 'Global Documentary' logo with the tagline 'Another world is possible' and a green globe icon. A video player is embedded in the center, showing a close-up of a person's eye looking at a landscape. To the right of the video player is a pink button that says 'Watch our film' and the title 'Connected' with the subtitle 'A film for change'. Below this, a short description reads: 'A positive film that asks questions about what kind of future we want to see.' The bottom section of the banner has an orange background with a white icon of three curved lines. It features the text 'Embrace the Change' in large white font, followed by 'Thursday 27 March 2014' and 'Live and interactive - solutions for a better future'. At the bottom of this section are three white buttons: 'Live global webcast', 'Speakers', and 'Local stories event'.
